

BANG IN THE DARK

INT — BEDROOM — UNKNOWN

A little angel flits across the black space illuminated only by the soft glow of her halo. She reaches out and touches a mound of clouds. The clouds stir and the angel speeds away.

A set of eyes open slowly and sleepily from under the cloud blanket, the eyes being the only thing to be seen. The eyes move through the space dropping down from the cloud bed and onto a supposed floor. They eyes take one or two steps and then fall with a bang.

INSERT VFX: CAMPY BATMAN BANG

CUT TO: POV

The eyes open, vision blurred, and stars fill the room. Little sparks of silver light and small galaxies surround the field of vision and remain as the eyes blink.

CUT TO:

The eyes look around as the galaxies unfold into the universe around them. The eyes seem to smile and suddenly a light bulb shaped ball of fire appears above them.

A little girl in a cute blue sleeping gown is illuminated by the firelight. She reaches up taking the fire in her hands and scatters it illuminating her room with tiny little fires inside the tiny galaxies surrounding her.

CUT TO:

The little girls eyes fill the world as she looks at a small galaxy. Two little angels flit towards her. They struggle to keep a bottle of glitter labeled life. The little girl grabs the bottle and tips it trying to carefully sprinkle the glitter on the galaxy. Before any of the glitter can come out she stops and sits up with a better idea on her face.

The little girl looks all around and then grabs a clump of clay. The two angels look at each other as the little girl puts the clay in her mouth and starts to chew.